

Summer 2018

Welcome to the summer 2018 email newsletter! If you would like to get more involved with Red Squirrels United and volunteer with your local red squirrel conservation projects, do get in touch with the following partner organisations:

Northumberland Wildlife Trust: red.squirrels@northwt.org.uk

Lancashire Wildlife Trust: red.squirrel@lancswt.org.uk

Red Squirrels Trust Wales: angleseysquirrels@hotmail.co.uk

The Wildlife Trust for South and West Wales: info@welshwildlife.org

Ulster Wildlife: redsquirrels@ulsterwildlife.org

Mammal Society recording app

The Mammal Society has launched a free mammal recording app which is available now! The Mammal Mapper makes it easy to record your sightings when you are out and about, without having to wait until you get home. You can also record signs of mammals such as mole hills and burrows as this adds to the picture of where mammal activity is.

Layman's Report 2017

Last year more than 1,000 volunteer interactions were recorded by Red Squirrels United partners. 300 community engagement events took place, reaching more than 20,000 people. Find out all about the programme and the red squirrel conservation activity that took place last year in the recently published 2017 Layman's Report.

The dog blog; using sniffer dogs to detect squirrel pox

Rachel Cripps; Red Squirrel Officer at Lancashire Wildlife Trust, recently combined her love of dogs with her red squirrel work and completed a day of sniffer dog training with her German Shepherd, Max. Read her blog about the potential for dogs to sniff out squirrel pox.

Red Squirrels United is funded by the Heritage Lottery Fund and EU LIFE14 and brings together organisations from across the UK to help protect red squirrels by raising public awareness and engaging community groups.
